The annual evaluation process for adjunct faculty and graduate assistants with teaching responsibility (GATs) at Texas A&M University-Commerce provides a system of feedback and support to (a) increase transparency regarding expectations for teaching performance, and (b) facilitate the development of adjunct faculty and GATs in teaching and instruction. Results of this annual review are used to make decisions regarding the terms and conditions of the employment relationship between the university and the adjunct faculty members and GATs.

Criteria for Evaluation
Adjunct faculty members and GATs are evaluated on their performance in the area of teaching. Evaluation is based on university-wide and departmental criteria.

At Texas A&M University-Commerce teaching is considered to be the first priority and prime objective of the university. For more information on university-wide criteria as well as system-wide guidelines for evaluating teaching, see 12.99.99.R0.11.

Specific measures and criteria used in annual evaluations will differ depending on academic department. Department heads/immediate supervisors in each academic department are responsible for identifying comprehensive measures and criteria for evaluating teaching suitable to the academic disciplines housed in their departments. However, the departmental criteria and measures for evaluating teaching of adjunct faculty members and GATs must be consistent with the general framework of the university-wide criteria.

Procedure for Evaluation of Teaching
New adjunct faculty and new GATs are evaluated at the end of their first semester of teaching. Returning adjunct faculty and returning GATs are evaluated annually at the end of the spring semester.

The department head/immediate supervisor will inform adjunct faculty members and GATs what instruments and methods (e.g., peer observation of classroom performance, teaching portfolio assessment) will be used to evaluate their teaching performance. These instruments include but are not limited to the required Adjunct and GAT Teaching Evaluation Form and student evaluations.
Annual Evaluation of Adjunct Faculty and Graduate Assistants with Teaching Responsibilities

At the end of each semester, students will complete an evaluation of the adjunct faculty member or GAT's teaching. The department head/immediate supervisor will use results of these evaluations in support of the overall evaluation of teaching performance.

The department head/immediate supervisor will (a) provide each adjunct faculty member or GAT with the results of evaluation form(s) used and a summary of the overall evaluation of teaching performance, and (b) meet with him or her to explain and discuss the evaluation and opportunities for improving his or her teaching effectiveness. Both parties sign the evaluation document.

The department head/immediate supervisor will maintain copies of each adjunct faculty and GAT's evaluation document in departmental files and refer to them when making future employment/teaching assignment decisions. He or she will also forward a copy of the signed evaluation document for adjunct faculty to the Office of the Provost and Vice President for Academic Affairs. (See A&M-Commerce procedure 12.99.99.R0.11 for more information).
