Rule Statement

All employees and students at Texas A&M University-Commerce are expected to comply with United States export control laws and regulations including, but not limited to, those implemented by the Department of Commerce through its Export Administration Regulations (EAR) and the Department of State through its International Traffic in Arms Regulations (ITAR), as well as those imposed by the Treasury Department through its Office of Foreign Assets Control (OFAC).

Reason for Rule

A&M-Commerce has an obligation to implement an export control compliance program to reduce the risk of export control violations. All employees and students are responsible for the export control implications of their work and must ensure that their activities conform to export control laws and regulations. There are severe institutional and individual sanctions for violations of export control laws and regulations, including the loss of research funding, the loss of export privileges, and criminal and civil penalties. This rule is required by System Regulation 15.02 Export Controls.

PROCEDURES AND RESPONSIBILITIES

1 GENERAL

Encouraging research and intellectual inquiry is vital to the accomplishment of the university’s research mission. A&M-Commerce supports open research and the free exchange of information among scholars. The University also recognizes that the United States has enacted laws and regulations restricting the transmission of Controlled Information and Controlled Physical Items for the purpose of protecting national, economic, security, and foreign policy interests. These federal export control laws and regulations establish the conditions under which Controlled Information and Controlled Physical Items can be transmitted to anyone outside the United States and to foreign persons in the United States.
In addition, the export control laws and regulations restrict or prohibit the transaction of business with certain countries, persons, and entities that have been sanctioned by federal agencies as a threat to important United States interests.

2 INDIVIDUAL RESPONSIBILITY

2.1 A&M-Commerce employees and students engage in a broad range of innovative and important research activities that may involve foreign persons in the United States or abroad. When these activities include the use of Controlled Information or Controlled Physical Items, the University requires that each individual comply with the applicable requirements of United States export control laws and regulations.

2.2 A&M-Commerce employees, students, visiting scientists, researchers, postdoctoral fellows, and other persons retained by or working at or for the University must conduct their affairs in accordance with United States export control laws and regulations. While complying with all applicable legal requirements, it is equally important to maintain an open research environment that welcomes the participation of researchers from around the world. To maintain this balance, university personnel must be familiar with the United States export control laws and regulations, including important exclusions and exemptions, as they relate to their responsibilities. Depending upon the nature of their activities and/or job functions, university personnel may be required to participate in formal training as determined by the University’s Empowered Official(s) and/or the employees’ supervisors.

2.3 University employees with managerial or supervisory authority over foreign persons or projects involving Controlled Information or Controlled Physical Items have a legal obligation to oversee export control compliance as an important part of their responsibilities.

2.4 University employees and students will comply with the provisions of any export license, governmental approval requirements, required certifications, technology control plans, and procedures adopted by or granted to A&M-Commerce.

3 EMPOWERED OFFICIAL

3.1 The named Chief Research Compliance Officer (or designee) is the university’s Empowered Official for all purposes relating to applicable federal export control laws and regulations.
