This is an online class, so the expectations are a bit different than courses taught face-to-face. Students need to feel comfortable working from a computer, using the Internet, and being self-motivated to work on the course content throughout the week. In a 15 week semester, students may spend 2 hours and 40 minutes per week in a lecture class plus additional time for driving and study/preparation. During a 5 week summer semester, students may spend up to 8 hours per week in a lecture class plus additional time for driving and study/preparation. During a 2.5 week May or Winter Mini, students may spend up to 17.5 hours per week in a lecture class plus additional time for driving and study/preparation. So, for an online class, it is important to schedule your time wisely. While you do not have the driving time, it is expected that the completion of this course will take the same amount of time as if it were being taken face-to-face. However, how you spend that time will be different. The lectures are quite a bit shorter, and will not take up the amount of time as it does face-to-face.

Office Hours: The instructor is accessible for out-of-class advisement and professional consultation relative to course performance and academic achievement. I will make every effort to resolve any problems, and I am available by email and telephone within 24 hours generally. If you need to speak with me, e-mail me and we will schedule a conference. The best way to reach me is via email or my cell phone. If you need my cell phone, either call the department or email me and I will give it to you.

IMPORTANT: Please use the e-college e-mail system. E-mails sent outside the provided secure system are not confidential, and I assume no responsibility for protecting the information within them. All my announcement and initial contact to you will be through ecollege. If you send me an email outside of ecollege, I will reply to it but will not take responsibility for protecting the information shared with you.

Course Description:
This course surveys the historical development and principal conceptualizations of marital and family therapy. Goals include an introductory examination and comparison of various theories currently employed in the field. Subject areas to be covered include the various schools of family therapy, along with current trends and issues in marriage and family therapy. Case studies and videotapes will be utilized to facilitate students’ understanding of theory and skills. In addition to reading the required text, additional outside reading is strongly encouraged to supplement student development in marriage and family therapy.

This is an introductory course to develop marriage and family counseling skills, which is required for doing internship and acquiring credentials as a Marriage & Family therapist. It is designed for students already having a background in counseling yet wanting specialized skill training. It will include assignments in which each student begins exploring her/his personal family of origin, an important component of training for professional counselors. COUN 611 requires considerable effort and motivation to successfully complete. If you are currently unable to dedicate adequate time and effort toward this course, please consider taking this at another time.
Prerequisite: COUN 510 or instructor consent.

Objectives: The objectives of this course are for each student to:

1. Be involved in an ongoing self-evaluation as a potential marriage counselor
2. Be developing a personal philosophy and methodology for marriage counseling that she/he can defend via sound rationale
3. Become acquainted with professionalism in marriage counseling (i.e., organizations, agencies, etc.).
4. Become aware of multiple aspects of relationship counseling (i.e., conjoint counseling, premarital counseling, divorce counseling, etc.)
5. Analyze how the family functions as a unique changing system and identify those points at which successful intervention seems most likely
6. Describe the historical development of the MFT field and current issues
7. Define key terms in the MFT and associate the terms with appropriate schools of thought
8. Compare and contrast the theories and approaches of leading schools of thought
9. Identify and demonstrate awareness of personal issues pertaining to one's family of origin and present functioning and how these issues may affect one's therapeutic relationships
10. Become familiar with current literature in the MFT field through journals & periodicals

Suggested Reading:

Expectations:

1. Participation - Students are expected to participate in all class discussion when assigned, and to complete all assignments as designated by due dates. This includes reading the assigned text material and participating appropriately in the class discussions.

2. Assignment - All assignments must be typed.

3. Grades - Graded class assignments including tests will be returned to you as soon as possible. The student is expected to maintain a personal record of grading progress throughout the course.

Activities:

1. Lecture and discussion.

2. Article analyses:
   Each student will read and critique one article in any of the many professional journals related to relationship counseling. Students may select an article such as "marital satisfaction" or "family conflict" or any topic related to marriage and family issues (please see the list of some of the marriage and family related journals below). This article will be presented to the class in the discussion area for classmates’ feedback.

3. Videos:
   Relevant counseling videotapes will be reviewed.

5. Examinations. There will be two multiple choice examinations.

6. Creating a Family Genogram
   In a short mini semester, there will not be enough time to schedule interviews with people in your family of origin linkage, in order to create a meaningful Genogram. However, I will be happy to provide the supervision for those of you who would like to take on the task on their own.

Format

This course will be conducted by lecture, class discussion totally online. Objectives will be attained through the following:

1. Student reading and participation
2. Lecture and discussion
3. Videos
5. article critique presentation

Requirements:

Article critique 10%
Two examinations (30% each) 60%

Grading: An instructor does not give grades. Students earn grades. If you approach your class with this understanding, it is the beginning of taking responsibility for your education and being a great student.

Grading Scale

- 90-100 = A
- 80-89 = B
- 70–79 = C
- 60–69 = D
- 59> = F

Professional Conduct: Students are expected to adhere to the Code of Ethics of the American Counseling Association. Any behavior, which is deemed unethical, will be grounds for review of the student by the program faculty.

Attendance: This course is totally online and you will study it on your own schedule, however, there are deadlines for reading and writing assignments that you have to follow. Each day/week you will get an assignment and new materials will be placed online for you to review. All materials in this course are copy righted and you are not allowed to print, copy or save any of the material without the instructor written permission. Your active participation in answering questions is required. I will be asking question online and expect you to fully participate in answering the questions. Even though, you are not required to be at your computer at certain hours of the day or week, I do expect to hear from you on the discussion area. You need to give feedback to other students on their work.

This course is online. I do not keep any paper record (including a grade book) on this class. This means that your work have to be uploaded on the “Ecollege” online in order for you to receive credit. If you email any of your work to me, I will read it but will not be able to give you the credit until it is posted online. Please make sure that you are familiar with the Ecollege. I am not a technology expert. Please forward all your technology questions to support services in “Ecollege”. No excuse is accepted for technology not working on your computer.
