CATALOG DESCRIPTION OF COURSE
510. Counseling Theories and Techniques. Three semester hours.
A study of the philosophical and theoretical bases of the helping process. Includes study of major counseling theories, basic helping skills, and applications to diverse populations. Also includes professional issues related specifically to the counseling process.

General Course Information
This course, along with COUN 501, serves as one of the basic introductory courses for the counseling curriculum. It is a requirement for all degree options, and should be taken early in the student’s preparation. A grade of “B” or higher must be earned in COUN 501, 510, 528, and 516 (or its equivalent for those seeking school counselor certification only), which is required before practicum (COUN 551).

Course Objectives include, but are not limited to, the following:
1. The student will identify, explain, and/or describe generally accepted characteristics of effective helpers.
2. Students will differentiate counseling from traditional interpretations of guidance, psychotherapy, and consultation via explanation, description, or the identification of descriptive statements.
3. Students will distinguish between the outcome and process goals of counseling and consultation via explanation, description, or the identification of descriptive statements.
4. Students will identify, generate responses, and/or demonstrate appropriate behaviors which are consistent with the Ethical Standards and Standards of Practice of the American Counseling Association, including differentiating between ethical and legal issues.
5. Students will identify, explain, and/or describe characteristics and behaviors that influence helping processes, including, but not limited to age, gender, ethnicity, culture, race, lifestyle, verbal and nonverbal communication styles, personal characteristics, traits, capabilities and life circumstances.
6. Students will identify, describe, and/or apply appropriate counseling skills to client/consultees who are different from the counselor in terms of race, cultural background, gender, age, physical abilities, lifestyle, and/or other criteria.

7. Students will identify, describe, and/or apply appropriate counseling skills to clients who are reluctant or resistant.

8. Students will identify, describe, and/or apply appropriate counseling skills to clients who are suicidal.

9. Students will identify and/or list and describe the typical stages of counseling initial interview through termination.

10. Students will identify, explain, apply, and/or evaluate hypothetical examples of basic listening, empathy, genuineness, unconditional positive regard, concreteness, immediacy, confrontation, self-disclosure, structuring, use of silence, nonverbal communication, and communication leads such as interpretation, probes, reassurances, questions, and restatements and reflections.

11. Students will identify, explain, or demonstrate behaviors congruent with currently accepted, psychodynamic, cognitive-behavioral and affective counseling theories, techniques, and practices, including, but not limited to Psychoanalytic, Adlerian, Existential, Person-Centered, Gestalt, Behavioral, Cognitive-behavioral, Reality, Family Systems, and Solution-Focused.

Course Requirements and Grading:
• Theory Reviews: You will be required to complete a theory review on each theory prior to covering the theory (please see the outline in this syllabus for more info.) Please see the Tentative course Calendar for the due dates. Please note that I will give no credit to those theory reviews which turned in after due date. You will do a total of 10 theory reviews for a total of 20 points. I will drop the lowest grade on one theory. All your reviews must be submitted in APA format.

• Comparison Research Paper: Choose two theories of most interest to you. Using your text book and 4 original sources for each theory, write a compare/contrast paper. Topics to compare and contrast should include the following: nature of person, personality development, emotional maladjustment, counselor/client relationship, techniques, therapeutic goals, etc. Research paper must follow American Psychological Association (APA) guidelines and should not exceed 12 pages (including cover and reference page, no Abstract is necessary). You will be graded according to APA style (10 points), writing and organization, content (80 points), and references (10 points). Original source is defined as journal article or book authored or co-authored by a major contributor of that particular theory.

• Exams: There will be three multiple-choice exams. The exams will cover your readings and lecture material. There will be no makeup test on any of the exams.

Attendance: The student is expected to attend class regularly. University guidelines will be followed accordingly. Missing more than 2 classes will result in a drop in letter grade.
Grading
• 3 Exams (20 points each) = 60
• Professional Paper = 20
• Theory review paper = 20
• Total = 100

Grading Scale
90-100 = A
80-89 = B
70–79 = C
60–69 = D
59> = F

Academic Conduct: All students enrolled at the University shall follow the tenets of common decency and acceptable behavior conducive to a positive learning environment. The instructor will adhere to all University policies pertaining to attendance, make-up tests, cheating, plagiarism, withdrawal, incompletes, and final exams. Students are expected to be familiar with these policies and procedure. Cheating on examinations, submitting work of other students as your own or plagiarism in any form will result in penalties ranging from an “F” on an assignment to expulsion from the university (See Student's Guide Handbook, Polices and Procedures, Conduct).

Professional Conduct: Students are expected to adhere to the Code of Ethics of the American Counseling Association. Any behavior, which is deemed unethical, will be grounds for review of the student by the program faculty.
