COURSE DESCRIPTION
This course will allow you many opportunities to explore important ethical issues that people have pondered over the centuries. We will read a number of works that explore different ideas about ethics and moral behavior, paying attention to the various systems of ethics that have been described historically, including deontological ethics, utilitarian ethics, virtue ethics, and the ethics of care. The course is organized so that conflicting, competing, and even complementary theories will be investigated and can be discussed in interesting and civil ways. Assignments include two essay exams, a few objective quizzes over the reading, two short (1-2 pages) written responses to the reading, and one paper of 5-6 pages examining a contemporary issue in light of one ethical system. Three textbooks are required:

STUDENT LEARNING OUTCOMES
• Students will write response papers and a research-based paper that demonstrate an understanding of established approaches to defining and understanding ethics.
• Students will write two exams that demonstrate understanding of the main schools of thought in ethics.
• Students will be able to view themselves as engaged citizens within an interconnected and diverse world, and this ability will be assessed through a response paper.

COURSE OBJECTIVES
• To acquire an overview of the various approaches to understanding ethics in the discipline of philosophy.
• to acquire an overview of the various cultural and social influences on thinking about ethical behavior.
• to formulate articulate responses to the reading assignments and ensuing discussions.

ASSIGNMENTS
Exams: You'll have a mid-term and a final, each covering roughly half of the semester. These exams will solicit short answers of 3 or 4 sentences, as well as longer, more richly detailed essay responses. Submit two blank blue books with your name on them before the midterm.
Response papers: In addition, you'll turn in two written responses (300-400 words each) to some of the reading assignments. These responses are not designed to test how well you've read the assigned material. Rather, they serve as opportunities for you to comment on one or two points in the reading, connecting those points to other reading and/or experiences. Each response paper will be evaluated according to the level of detail in your insightful commentary and sensible connections to other reading and/or experiences or observations. Specific assignments are forthcoming in eCollege.

Research Paper: In this paper of 5-6 pages, you will explore and evaluate a contemporary ethical issue in light of at least one of the four ethical systems we will cover in class. Ideally, this ethical issue will be related to your academic major. A separate assignment sheet is forthcoming in eCollege.

Quizzes: You’ll take six quizzes to test your comprehension of some of the reading. These timed quizzes will be in eCollege and cannot easily be made up. Each quiz will be announced as the semester progresses, so be attentive to their deadlines.

As a rule I do not accept late assignments.

ATTENDANCE

Regular attendance is important for several reasons, but it is especially important for you to keep up with the assignments in this class. The tentative calendar below offers only the most general description of activities; more detail will be provided in class as the semester goes on. If you are absent the day an assignment is due, you must contact me and make satisfactory arrangements for turning in the assignment. In most cases, such arrangements will include your emailing the assignment to me as an attachment by the deadline. Failure to make prior satisfactory arrangements will result in your forfeiting the right to turn in that assignment. As per university policy, excessive absences (three weeks’ worth) may result in your being dropped from the course.

PLAGIARISM/ACADEMIC DISHONESTY STATEMENT

Instructors in the Department of Literature and Languages do not tolerate plagiarism and other forms of academic dishonesty. Instructors uphold and support the highest academic standards, and students are expected to do likewise. Penalties for students guilty of academic dishonesty include disciplinary probation, suspension, and expulsion. (Texas A&M University-Commerce Code of Student Conduct 5.b[1,2,3]). Plagiarism on one assignment in this course will most likely lead to a failing grade for the course.
