COURSE DESCRIPTION
I just tap the lid, loosen it a bit, and allow the student to be the one who unscrews it. Studio 2 will focus on design education history, theory, philosophy, and methods. Why do we have a compelling need to teach and why would anyone else listen to me? In addition, how do we learn to recognize and respond to good work in a way that empowers and mediocre work in a way that motivates? How do we compel and guide students to reach beyond the stars? When is enough direction enough? Does “tough love” have a place in the classroom?

COURSE OBJECTIVES
1. Conduct a self-analysis of your background & experience with regard to effective teaching.
2. Discover what makes a good teacher good and a bad teacher bad
3. Expand your understanding of grading evaluation methods
4. Understand and develop a successful criteria for a students’ solution to a problem
5. Explore critique methods through role play
6. Gain knowledge in selecting clients/assignments that will produce positive possibilities
7. Understand the art of “pushing/leading” not art directing (tapping on the lid).
8. Become familiar with design education topics through reading and discussion and develop your own teaching and design philosophy

COURSE STRUCTURE / EXPECTATIONS
This class will be a combination of lecture, readings, assignments, and class discussion. Outside class work will consist of readings, response essays for discussion, and assignments. This class is designed to be primarily a discussion class, which means that it is imperative that you come to class prepared to engage and contribute for positive outcome.

STATEMENT ON STUDENT BEHAVIOR:
All students enrolled at the University shall follow the tenet of common decency and acceptable behavior conducive to a positive learning environment. (See Student’s Guide Handbook, Policies and Procedures, Conduct)

All students must show respect toward the instructor and the instructor’s syllabus, presentations, assignments, and point of view. Students should respect each others’ differences. If the instructor determines that a student is not being respectful towards other students or the instructor, it is the instructor’s prerogative to ask the student to leave, to refer the student to the department head, and to consider referring the student to the Dean of Students who may consider requiring the student to drop the course. Please refer to pages 42 – 46 of the Texas A&M University-commerce Student guidebook’s Codes of Conduct for details.

STUDENT CONDUCT/CITIZENSHIP
All students enrolled at the University shall follow the tenets of common decency and acceptable behavior conducive to a positive learning environment. (See Code of Student Conduct from Student Guide Handbook). Students are expected, at all times, to recognize constituted authority, to conform to the ordinary rules of good conduct, to be truthful, to respect the rights of others, to protect private and public property, and to make the best use of their time and effort toward the educational process.
