COURSE INFORMATION

Materials – Textbooks, Readings, Supplementary Readings:
There is no assigned text for this course. Other materials/readings may be assigned and posted in DocSharing in eCollege.

Course Description/Explanation:
Students will write a formal research paper designed to broaden students’ perspectives and to provide an opportunity for the integration of course concepts. Emphasis will be placed on methods of interpretation, writing, and critical thinking related to criminal justice topics/issues.

Student Learning Outcomes/Core Competencies:
1. Think critically about important issues in applied criminology and criminal justice
2. Problem-solve solutions to relevant problems in criminal justice
3. Enhance communication skills and reading/research/writing acumen

COURSE REQUIREMENTS

Instructional Methods/Activities/Assessments
This course is the final course in the MS in Applied Criminology program. As such, the purpose of this course is to assist students in preparing and completing their capstone project for the program. You will work toward achieving this goal through discussions/comments and completion of a capstone paper. Below is an explanation of each course requirement including due date, assignment instructions, and other requirements.
Please note that a core competency of this course and program is critical thinking. Critical thinking requires students to think through situations, facts, and issues in an open-minded and objective way in an effort to analyze and evaluate information in an informed manner. Qualities of a critical thinker (and of arguments that embody critical thinking) include:

- Certainty is not always necessary for a critical thinker; possibility and probability should always be a consideration—in other words, just because the book tells you it is true, doesn’t mean that there may not be another solution or possibility to consider. The way that facts relate to one another—and not just fact alone—should be used to determine truth.

- Critical thinkers are not only independent thinkers; they are also fair-minded in that they are willing to consider all points of view, and they are careful to take every aspect of an argument into consideration—your way of thinking may not necessarily be the only way or the right way of thinking, consider other perspectives.

- Consider evidence (facts), source (from what source did your evidence come from), and motivations (what might be the underlying motivation behind these facts)—in other words, gather information from credible sources and evaluate these sources/factual information in the context of what you have been asked to discuss/evaluate.

As defined by the National Council for Excellence in Critical Thinking, critical thinking is:

“The intellectually disciplined process of actively and skillfully conceptualizing, applying, analyzing, synthesizing, and/or evaluating information gathered from, or generated by, observation, experience, reflection, reasoning, or communication, as a guide to belief and action. In its exemplary form, it is based on universal intellectual values that transcend subject matter divisions: clarity, accuracy, precision, consistency, relevance, sound evidence, good reasons, depth, breadth, and fairness.”

(Scriven, M. & Paul, R. Presented at the 8th Annual International Conference on Critical Thinking and Education Reform, Summer 1987.)

When preparing discussions/comments/papers/etc., use the following to help you critically think through each task. You will be graded (in part) on how well you are able to perform this skill.

- Determine the problem/issue you are trying to solve. Make sure you remain open-minded and objective and be aware of your own biases on the subject and put them aside
- Develop a hypothesis and/or possible solution to the problem/issue. Brainstorm other possible solutions. Think about the pros and cons of the problem/issue
- Gather information on the problem/issue that may support or contradict your position
- Analyze your facts. Don’t assume anything. Evaluate the facts objectively
- Determine a reasonable conclusion based on all of the facts
- Make sure your facts (and the reporting of the facts) are accurate. You may assume a causal relationship but there might be other possible conclusions to be drawn based on other factors. Be sure to evaluate what those might be
Introduction/Discussion Posts: (1 Introduction @ 50 points; 4 discussion posts @ 50 points each = 250 course points)

Student Learning Outcomes #1-#3: Think critically about important issues in applied criminology and criminal justice; Problem-solve solutions to relevant problems in criminal justice; Enhance communication skills and reading/research/writing acumen

The Introduction is a chance for you to ‘meet’ your colleagues (although most of you likely know each other by now) in the class and an opportunity to introduce yourself to your professor. You will also be required to answer a course-related question. Specific instructions on what to post are available when you click on Introduction in Week One. The Introductory post is due on Wednesday of Week One of the course.

The Discussions are directly related to the work you are doing on your capstone project. Each post will require that you present to the other students in the class, your thoughts/concerns/problems/issues on specific topics related to your project. You are expected to engage in an ongoing discussion with your classmates, providing assistance and guidance when possible. Your contributions to the discussion forums will be graded for quality and insightful thought/assistance that you provide to your colleagues. Specific discussion post topics are located in eCollege.

These posts should be a minimum of 250 words. The specific discussion assignment is located in each unit Week by clicking on the Discussion link. Posts are due by 11:00PM CST on Fridays.

Comment Posts: (20 comments @ 10 points each = 200 course points)

Student Learning Outcomes #1-#3: Think critically about important issues in applied criminology and criminal justice; Problem-solve solutions to relevant problems in criminal justice; Enhance communication skills and reading/research/writing acumen.

Comment posts are responses you make to the discussion posts that you and your classmates post each week. You are required to make a minimum of five comments each week. I would strongly encourage you to engage your colleagues well past the five-comment minimum in order to maximize your opportunity for meaningful discussion and learning.

Comment posts should be meaningful. Merely agreeing or disagreeing with a classmate will not be looked upon favorably and will result in a loss of points. A meaningful post is one that moves the discussion forward in some substantive way through providing one’s perspective, additional information through research, or reframing the discussion in some new way. You are expected to engage in an ongoing discussion with your classmates. Your comments will be graded for quality, and relevance and the degree to which you offer useful and relevant suggestions to your colleagues. Your comments will also be graded based on your ability to engage in critical thinking.

All comment posts are due by 11:00PM CST on Sundays.
Assessment Method: Comments will be graded using the Comments Grading Rubric attached to the Discussion Post Grading Rubric. The discussion and Comments for each week will be graded together and posted as one grade (Discussion = 50 + Comments 5@10 points each = 100 points/week).

Capstone Paper Instructions (450 points): You began the process of preparing your Capstone paper/project in CJ 575: Research Methods in Criminal Justice. In that class, you spent significant time and effort selecting a topic and research question for evaluation, writing an annotated bibliography, and preparing a literature review. At the time that you completed CJ 575, you should have received detailed comments from your instructor regarding the ‘status’ of your literature review; a primary component of your final Capstone paper/project. If your professor indicated that minimal changes were necessary, you are in good shape. If your professor indicated that significant additional work should take place, I am hopeful that you took the opportunity to strengthen your literature review before entering this class (as I know your professor suggested you do). If not, you have your work cut out for you, as you will need to work on the literature review as well as other components of the paper simultaneously.

You continued your Capstone paper/project in CJ 576: Data Analysis and Interpretation. This course required that you use the topic you chose for your Capstone as the foundation for preparing a survey instrument. You were also introduced to data evaluation and interpretation through writing a meta-analysis review of the D.A.R.E. program.

You now find yourself in CJ 595: Research Literature and Techniques and in the five remaining weeks you have in the program, you will need to complete your Capstone paper/project. Your Capstone paper/project must contain the following elements. A more detailed explanation of what is required is provided below.

- Literature review
- Body, including insightful and critical analysis of data/information related to your topic
- Body, including key information from your ‘track’ concentration (i.e., management or policy)
- Body, including suggestions for improvement/policy recommendations
- Conclusion

Literature Review: If you did your job in CJ 575, this component of your paper should be near-complete. It might require inclusion of additional sources (outside the 10 you provided for the literature review in CJ 575) based on recently-published material or material you did not have time to include in your original work, but you should be almost done with this section.

As the assignment required in CJ 575, a literature review aims to highlight the current state of knowledge regarding a particular topic under study (see any journal article you have read for this program and/or the Literature Review FactSheet located in the CJ 500 Orientation course for more). Literature reviews generally include substantive findings as well as theoretical and methodological contributions to a particular topic. Literature reviews are comprised of secondary sources and as such do not report any new or original experimental work. The main purpose of a literature review is to situate the current study/paper within the body of literature and to provide context for the reader.

A literature review is not a summary but a synthesis of the material you have read. The idea is to take your sources and organize them in some way that informs the reader about the ‘state of knowledge’ regarding the paper you wish to write. This requires that you pull your sources together in a way that explains to the reader why the issue/topic/problem you have identified is worth studying (i.e., not covered in current literature, no consensus in existing literature, augmenting existing literature, etc.). Any self-respecting literature review concludes with a research statement/hypothesis that is expressly stated and is the foundation from which the rest of the paper will be built. If your literature review does not do the above, it needs to. Ask your professor for assistance if you have questions. Access any peer-reviewed journal article as an example. You should have read a multitude of high-quality articles by now.

Body I, including insightful and critical analysis of data/information related to your topic: The body of your paper is just as it sounds; the core of your paper. In this section of your paper, you should explain/argue in some detail for or against your research thesis/hypothesis. You will need to use research you have from your literature review and other materials to do this correctly, but this section of the paper must demonstrate your clear understanding of the topic through a critical analysis of supporting material related to your topic. The exercise from CJ 576 (i.e., meta-analytic review of D.A.R.E) should help you here. By way of example, if you are proposing a new way of implementing community policing in a large metropolitan police department, you will want to explain in detail what community policing is and why new management strategies are necessary (comparing old strategies with new). Here is a good place to do that.

Body II, including key information from your ‘track’ concentration (i.e., management or policy): You have chosen a track within which to specialize in this program: management or policy. In fact, you likely selected your Capstone paper/project based on your track specialization. For example, students who are specializing in the management track may have chosen a Capstone paper/project topic that involves changing agency practice through using innovations in criminal justice administration and management. If management is your track specialization, you will need to demonstrate in your paper a clear and critical understanding of management practice that directly relates to your paper/project topic. You will need to include specific concepts learned from CJ 520: CJ Administration and Management in this section of your paper to demonstrate your command of this information. Continuing with the example above, if you are looking to implement a new method of managing community policing, you will want to address issues related to organizational change, job descriptions, etc. (information specifically from CJ 520) in this course to demonstrate that you understand. You should plan to include three specific management issues in this section.

If you selected the policy track within which to specialize, it is likely that your Capstone paper/project reflects this preference and includes policy recommendations/changes/proposals to existing agency policy or provides the foundation for promoting new policy initiatives. If policy is your track specialization, you will need to demonstrate in your paper a clear and critical understanding of policy that directly relates to your paper/project topic. You will need to include specific concepts learned from CJ 583: CJ Policy in this section of your paper to demonstrate your command of this information. Continuing with the example above, if you are looking to implement a new method of managing community policing and wish to evaluate this from a policy perspective, what policy changes would be necessary and what would they be?

Body III, including suggestions for improvement/policy recommendations: The third section of the body of your paper must include suggestions for improvement/change to whatever it is you are researching. For example, if you are looking at modifying the management structure of an organization to accommodation organizational change, you will need to discuss how this change will benefit the agency in question as well as other stakeholders. If you are proposing policy changes to current urinalysis protocols, how will this policy impact the organization and stakeholders?

In either case, it is likely you are wishing to make change to management or policy because you believe what you are proposing is better than the status quo. This section of your paper is where you will justify why your idea is better and what outcomes will result. You must make specific suggestions for change and improvement to management/organizational structure and policy recommendations, depending on your area of specialization.

Conclusion: Finally, you will need to conclude your paper. At this point you have put substantial effort into your paper. Close this chapter of your life (and your attendance in this program) with a ‘bang’.

The Capstone paper/project is due in stages. In all cases, submissions are due by 11:00PM CST on the day they are due.

Part I:
Literature Review and Body I and Body II
Wednesday, Week #3

Part II:
Final paper (to include Literature Review, Body I, II, III,
Thursday, Week #5

Your Capstone Paper/Project must be a minimum of 25 pages in length (does not include references), maximum 12-point font, 1-inch margins, include your name on the paper, and utilize proper APA citation format. An example of APA format is located in DocSharing. The entire paper must adhere to APA format, including citations.

Assessment Method: Students will be graded on their Capstone paper/project using review using the Capstone Paper Grading Rubric.

GRADING

Assignments for this course will be scored using a points system. Below is an explanation of how each assignment type will be scored.

Grades will be available in the gradebook so that students can track their progress in the course in ‘real time’.

TECHNOLOGY REQUIREMENTS

1. You will need regular access to a computer with a broadband Internet connection. The minimum computer requirements for Ecollege are:
   - Any current Flash-compliant browser (eg. Internet Explorer 7 or Firefox 3.0)
   - 512 MB of RAM, 1 GB or more preferred
   - Broadband connection required – courses are heavily video intensive
   - Video display capable of high-color 16-bit display – 1024 x 768 or higher resolution
   - A sound card and speakers or headphones

   Current anti-virus software must be installed and kept up to date

   Some classes may have specific class requirements for additional software. These requirements will be listed on the course offerings page. Most home computers purchased within the last 3-4 years meet or surpass these requirements.

2. You will need some additional free software for enhanced web browsing. Ensure that you download the free versions of the following software:

   Adobe Reader
   Adobe Flash Player

3. At a minimum, you must have Microsoft Office 2003, XP, 2007 or OpenOffice. Microsoft Office is the standard office productivity software utilized by faculty, students, and staff. Microsoft Word is the standard word processing software, Microsoft Excel is the standard spreadsheet software, and Microsoft PowerPoint is the standard presentation software. Copying and pasting, along with attaching/uploading documents for assignment submission, will also be required. If you do not have Microsoft Office, you can check with the bookstore to see if they have any student copies.

ACCESS AND NAVIGATION

This course will be facilitated using eCollege. To log in to eCollege/the course, use the eCollege/MyLeo log-in and password you received during the enrollment process.

COMMUNICATION AND SUPPORT

Interaction with Instructor Statement:
My primary form of communication with the class will be through Email and Announcements. Any changes to the syllabus or other important information critical to the class will be disseminated to students in this way via your official University Email address available to me through MyLeo and in Announcements. It will be your responsibility to check your University Email and Announcements regularly.
Students who Email me outside of regular office hours can expect a reply within 24 hours M-F. Students who Email me during holidays or over the weekend should expect a reply by the end of the next regularly scheduled business day.

eCollege Student Technical Support:

It is reassuring to know that technical support is available to make your online learning experience convenient. All you have to do is call or email and a knowledgeable representative will help you solve your technical issues.

myLeo Support:

Your myLeo email address is required to send and receive all student correspondence. Please email helpdesk@tamuc.edu or call us at 903-468-6000 with any questions about setting up your myLeo email account. You may also access information at http://www.tamuc.edu/studentLife/campusServices/ITSupportCenter/default.aspx

Internet Access:

An Internet connection is necessary to participate in discussions and assignments, access readings, transfer course work, and receive feedback from your professor. View the requirements as outlined in Technology Requirements above for more information.

COURSE AND UNIVERSITY PROCEDURES/POLICIES

Course Specific Procedures:

Academic Honesty

Students who violate University rules on scholastic dishonesty are subject to disciplinary penalties, including (but not limited to) receiving a failing grade on the assignment, the possibility of failure in the course and dismissal from the University. Since dishonesty harms the individual, all students, and the integrity of the University, policies on scholastic dishonesty will be strictly enforced. In ALL instances, incidents of academic dishonesty will be reported to the Department Head. Please be aware that academic dishonesty includes (but is not limited to) cheating, plagiarism, and collusion.

Cheating is defined as:

- Copying another’s test of assignment
- Communication with another during an exam or assignment (i.e. written, oral or otherwise)
- Giving or seeking aid from another when not permitted by the instructor
- Possessing or using unauthorized materials during the test
- Buying, using, stealing, transporting, or soliciting a test, draft of a test, or answer key

Plagiarism is defined as:

- Using someone else’s work in your assignment without appropriate acknowledgement
- Making slight variations in the language and then failing to give credit to the source Collusion is defined as:

- Collaborating with another, without authorization, when preparing an assignment

If you have any questions regarding academic dishonesty, ask. Otherwise, I will assume that you have full knowledge of the academic dishonesty policy and agree to the conditions as set forth in this syllabus.

Students should also reference the following link for more detailed information.

Policy for Reporting Problems with eCollege
Students who encounter eCollege-based problems with submitting assignments/exams, etc., are required to do the following:

Call 1-866-656-5511 or 720-931-3847 (direct), or through the Online Chat by clicking on the "Tech Support" tab within your eCollege course. You may also Email HelpDesk@tamuc.edu

Hours: The eCollege helpdesk is open 24/7 to meet your needs.

Your call will be logged and I will check with the Tech Support staff to confirm your call. Once I have confirmed your call, I will contact you regarding the issue.

Only eCollege-based problems will be addressed. Make sure your internet connection is working and viable when taking tests or turning in assignments.

APA Citation Format Policy
It is very important that you learn how to cite properly. In some ways, citations are more important than the actual text of your paper/assignment. Therefore, you should take this task seriously and devote some time to understanding how to cite properly. If you take the time to understand this process up front, it will save you a significant amount of time in the long run (not to mention significant deductions in points).

In the social and behavioral sciences (including Criminal Justice), we use APA (American Psychological Association) format. As a rule of thumb, one cites whenever they are paraphrasing other people’s words or when they quote other’s words directly. You may learn to cite from a variety of different sources including the APA Tutorial and the sources listed below and in the CJ 500 Orientation Course.

www.apastyle.org
http://owl.english.purdue.edu/owl/resource/560/02/
www.library.cornell.edu/resrch/citmanage/apa

It is the student’s responsibility to understand how to cite properly. If you have questions, feel free to ask.
Late Work
The way this course is designed, every course hour should be spent either working on your paper/posting a discussion/answering discussion or waiting for comments from your professor. If late papers are routinely accepted, it would be impossible for you to complete your work and the program. Therefore, I strongly suggest that should you need to turn in an assignment late, that you contact your professor immediately. It is completely within an instructor’s discretion to allow or not allow late work in this course. Verifiable documentation will be requested/required.

Drop Course Policy
Students should take responsibility for dropping themselves from the course according to University policy should this become necessary.

University Specific Procedures:

ADA Statement
The Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) is a federal anti-discrimination statute that provides comprehensive civil rights protection for persons with disabilities. Among other things, this legislation requires that all students with disabilities be guaranteed a learning environment that provides for reasonable accommodation of their disabilities. If you have a disability requiring an accommodation, please contact:

Office of Student Disability Resources and Services
Texas A&M University-Commerce
Gee Library
Room 132
Phone (903) 886-5150 or (903) 886-5835
Fax (903) 468-8148
StudentDisabilityServices@tamuc.edu

Student Conduct
All students enrolled at the University shall follow the tenets of common decency and acceptable behavior conducive to a positive learning environment. (See Code of Student Conduct from Student Guide Handbook). Students should also consult the Rules of Netiquette for more information regarding how to interact with students in an online forum:
http://www.albion.com/netiquette/corerules.html

COURSE OUTLINE / CALENDAR

Every effort will be made to adhere to the course schedule as noted below. However, unforeseen circumstances may require changes to the schedule. In that case, changes will be announced via University Email and in Announcements. The professor reserves the right to change the schedule if necessary and depending on the progress of the class. I highly recommend that you follow the schedule outlined below VERY CAREFULLY so that you are sure to turn your assignments in on time.

Please note that all discussions/comments/assignments are due by 11:00PM CST in eCollege on the day they are due as outlined in the syllabus. Please note that this course runs on a Monday-Sunday schedule.
