Goals and Objectives
This course will provide instruction in standard performance practice for the clarinet as well as pedagogical techniques and standard literature. Students will improve technical proficiency and musicality through the study of basic repertoire for the instrument. This course will also instruct students in the areas of music history and theory by the study of music and composers. It will present students with the opportunity to show progress on the instrument through performance.
Student Learning Objectives: Upon completion of the baccalaureate curriculum, the student will
1) Demonstrate the basics of musical performance with special attention to rhythm, tone quality, range, musical phrasing, intonation, and style;
2) Demonstrate the ability to perform music from different stylistic periods;
3) Demonstrate the ability to perform music in varied key signatures, keys, and meter signatures;
4) Demonstrate the ability to perform all major and minor scales in the designated format.

Student Expectations
Students are expected to attend all scheduled lessons, classes, recitals, and events as assigned. Notification for excused absence must be received in advance. Unexcused absences are not rescheduled. Students are expected to come to lessons prepared and with all assigned materials.

All students must perform for a final jury exam. All music majors must perform in public during the semester. All 300-level applied students must perform in departmental recital, ½ recital, or full recital during the semester.

Students will be expected to purchase their own books and solo literature for this course. Copies are not permitted. Students are also expected to pay for their own piano accompanist for public and jury performances.

Failure to meet the student expectations of this course may result in lowering of the final grade or dismissal from the course.

Grading Criteria
Average of the following semester grades:
- lesson grades
- required studio attendance and participation grade
- semester jury (or substitution of recital) grades
- scale and technique examination grades
- chamber music preparation and performance (majors only)
- written assignment grades

*Incomplete or Failing Grade without passing written assignments

Materials Needed
Students are expected to have all materials necessary to perform for their lesson. This includes instrument(s), reeds, books, solo repertoire, notebook, metronome, tuner, etc. Students must dress appropriately for recitals, concerts and guest artists.

Schedule of Activities
All students in clarinet lessons are required to attend all clarinet recitals during the semester.

Music majors are required to attend clarinet studio classes and masterclasses. All students must attend all events with guest artists unless cleared with the professor.

*Dates will be announced and posted at Room 217 as they become available.

The applied instructor selects literature and plans lessons in a logical sequence specifically designed to prepare each student to meet the stated student learning outcomes. Thus, the literature and skills addressed in each lesson will vary according to each student's experience in performance repertoire and technical strengths and weaknesses. In practice, after assessing a student's skills and needs in the early lessons, the applied instructor often provides a more detailed overview of the semester's activities; however, this overview is specific to that student and the sequential activities are contingent upon that student's continued progress.
Lesson Grading

Note: The syllabus for this studio is a general model. Strict adherence is unrealistic. Assignments are determined based on each student’s level of performance upon entry into the department and his/her ability to apply new concepts.

Students are given a weekly grade for lessons. Each assignment from the previous week will be recorded and graded for preparation and performance. Assignments will include, but are not limited to warm-ups, audition preparation, scales, exercises, etudes, sight reading, solo literature, methods materials, improvisation, and chamber music.

Weekly grades are open for review by the student at all times during the semester. Students can review the grades at the end of the lesson, by appointment, or during office hours.

Chamber Music

Music majors are required to participate in chamber music rehearsals and perform for the Clarinet Studio Chamber Music Recitals (exact date and time to be determined). Majors will also be expected to participate in the Clarinet Choir. The professor(s) will try to keep rehearsal time and commitments to a minimum during the marching season.

Global Learning

Students will be expected to learn literature from multiple and varied areas of the world. Research projects may be assigned for any literature being performed as well as for any performances of assigned literature. Students may be expected to analyze and compare different schools of thought in both performance fundamentals of the instrument and interpretation of repertoire throughout the world.

Students will be expected to research the composer for all solo literature being studied during the semester. Students should have a basic understanding of the time period and the style of composition. They are also expected to study recordings of sample compositions by the composer and/or his contemporaries. Upper division and graduate students are expected to cover more literature during the course of the semester, as well as a wider variety of literature and will be expected to turn in papers on each solo studied.

Communication

Students must maintain professional standards when communicating with Dr. Druhan. Email should be constructed in a business-like form and without “texting” language. Expectations include capitalization and proper punctuation. Email must have a greeting and your name. Unacceptable email will be returned without reply.
