Applied Percussion Lessons

The Percussion Curriculum will be used for all applied lesson students in Lower and Upper Divisions in all degree programs including the Graduate level. Students will be placed in specific levels, according to their needs and will have twelve lessons throughout the semester. Each level has specific goals that students will be working to achieve in addition to any personal goals each student might have. Lessons will be divided up into two thirty-minute halves, each focusing on one instrument (i.e. keyboard and snare drum). It is the student's responsibility to prepare materials listed in the Curriculum according to their level of study and lesson week. Materials performed in lessons will be chosen at random from each assignment. Additional material may be assigned, according to the individual needs of each student.

Attendance

Attendance at every lesson is mandatory. Students must give advanced notice if a lesson will be missed. In this case, the lesson can be re-scheduled. If no advance notice is given, the lesson will result in a “0” for that lesson. If you know you will be missing a lesson, call Dr. Zator at 903-886-5299 or your respective instructor BEFORE YOUR LESSON TIME to explain the situation. If Dr. Zator or your instructor is unavailable, please leave a message, call the Music office at 903-886-5304, or leave a note on Dr. Zator's bulletin board. If the instructor misses with or without advanced notice, the lesson will be made up.

All students are allowed one “freebie” lesson. Students can take off one lesson without being penalized. Students will then move to the next week's curriculum. Instructors can also adjust the lesson curriculum, if needed. Contact Dr. Zator or your respective instructor in advance of missing this lesson. If no contact is made BEFORE your lesson time, that lesson week will receive a grade of “0” and not provided a freebie or make-up time. The second and further excused or unexcused absences will receive a grade of “0”.

Grading

Grading is determined by weekly preparation (40%), mid-term assignment (10%), jury performance (30%), percussion area recital or studio class performances (10%), and program notes (10%). A high level of weekly preparation is expected for every lesson. This preparation will be recorded each week and will account for your weekly preparation average.

Mid-term Barriers Video Assignment

At the mid-term point of the semester, every student will have a video performance assignment. Students will be required to videotape selected barrier materials and submit them for private viewing through a private website link. Specific details of performance materials will be outlined for each student, according to their lesson plans.

Completion of the assignment will count towards the mid-term assignment. Performance evaluations will apply to passing or non-passing of those barrier materials. Students who fail this barrier performance may be able to re-play these materials during their final barrier time slot.

Juries

Students are responsible for performing a jury piece for each instrument they are studying during that semester. Each piece will be assigned or approved by the instructor, then prepared over the course of the semester. Each student will then perform both jury pieces for a panel of faculty/staff members. A grade will be given for this performance and factored into the final grade. You will NOT be able to perform your jury if you do not have the original score at the jury performance.

Performances

In addition to the final jury, all students must perform as a soloist, or duo, on at least TWO Percussion Area Recitals, Studio Class or Departmental Convocations for a grade (unless excused by the instructor). These performances account for 10% of your final grade. This percentage may change according to the individual and the performance on a joint or solo recital.

Program Notes

All students, regardless of level, will be responsible for writing program notes for each of their jury pieces. Using resources from PAS, the library, message boards, and forums will assist students in finding information about the piece, composer, etc. Necessary information include composer dates, composition date, premiere performances, dedications and general historical information about the work and composer. Each report needs to be at least a ½ page with 12-point Times font, single spaced. Document all sources in whatever format you wish (MLA, Turabian, etc.). These reports are due at your jury. Those performing a recital are required to write program notes for all their pieces.

Sight-Reading

All students, regardless of level, will take a sight-reading mid-term and final exam. The exam will include sight-reading one short etude. This grade will be factored into the applied lesson average as the 13th and 14th grades. The exam will take place at the beginning of the appropriate lesson (approximately week six and the last lesson of the semester).

To facilitate preparation, students will be expected to practice sight-reading for a minimum of 10 minutes a day. Students are encouraged to use their own materials or check-out books from the library. As a general rule, but very important for sight-reading skills, DO NOT put this off until the last minute; form a habit of doing this every day.

Final Barriers

At the end of each semester, all students must pass a “barrier exam” covering the material from the Percussion Curriculum. Selections from the weekly assignments will be chosen from random and the student must show a thorough knowledge of the material. All barrier materials will be graded pass or fail, but not included in the final lesson grade. If a student fails the barrier exam, the level must be repeated. If a student fails a level three times, that student will not be allowed to continue the music major degree at TAMU-C.

If a student has received A’s for every lesson, excluding sight-reading grades and with one exception stated below, they will not have to play a barrier on those instruments at the end of the semester. Exception: if a student receives lower than an A on one lesson or takes a freebie lesson, but earns A’s on all other lessons, they will still be excused from taking the barrier for that particular semester. Note: this does not apply to the Junior Level Proficiency Exam (JLPE) semester. Anyone taking the JLPE is required to perform their barrier, due to the etudes, sight-reading and scales performance requirement of the JLPE.

Junior Level Proficiency Exam (JLPE)

Lower/Upper Division Applied Percussion Lessons (152, 352)

The student handbook states that all students must pass the JLPE to be admitted into upper division Principal Applied lessons (MUS 352). This exam is given at the end of the students 4th semester of lower division lessons (MUS 152). If this attempt fails, the student has one more opportunity to earn upper division status at the end of the following long semester. If this attempt fails, the student is directed to another field of study. Materials for this exam include the solo(s) and etudes prepared for the particular instruments during that 4th semester. These instruments could be different for different percussion students and will be handled on a case-by-case basis. Additionally, all students attempting the JLPE will be required to sight-read a 2-mallet etude and pass off all 48 scales during the barrier, in addition to the etudes and solo(s). Scales will be chosen by random. Please see the Student Handbook for more details of these requirements.

Percussion students must have passed or attempting the following levels by their 4th semester of study to attempt the JLPE: Snare Drum I, Keyboard III, Timpani I, Drumset I.

Junior Year-Oral Presentation (new for Fall 2015)

All juniors, in the fall or spring semester, will give a percussion/education-related research oral presentation (7-12 minutes). This presentation must be accompanied by an outline, turned into Dr. Zator at 1-2 weeks prior to the oral presentation. Timeline of this project:

- Lesson 3 3 topics presented to Dr. Zator
- Lesson 6 Final topic selected
- Lesson 8 First draft of outline due to Dr. Zator
- Lesson 10 Final draft of outline due to Dr. Zator
- Lesson 11 or 12, during Studio Class Final Oral Presentation to the entire studio

Listening Cards (new for Fall 2015)

Students shall create annotated index file cards or digital file of ten (10) works from a minimum of five different recordings. The cards/printout are due at the time of the jury and must be handed/mailed to Dr. Zator before the student performs. The cards/file must be comprised from a minimum of five different recordings, of which only one work may be jazz or commercial, one work must be for solo instrumentation other than percussion, and one work (complete) must be an instructional percussion or percussion performance-oriented ethnic (world music) video. The remainder of the assignment must represent percussion performances from contrasting instrumentation, styles, and genre (e.g. solo, chamber, orchestral, etc.). Not more than five (5) works may be from the orchestral excerpt genre. Listening examples include: solo marimba and/or vibes, solo multiple percussion, drumset artists, percussion/timpani excerpt repertoire, percussion ensemble, steel drum group/artists, etc.

Card/file must include: composer, title, year of composition, record title and label, performer(s), general content, a brief discussion of personal impressions/thoughts regarding the work and/or performance, and anything that will aid in later recall of the recording. Do include identification numbers of recordings and dates when possible. The student must maintain a copy (hard copy, digital file) of all cards/files from each semester's compilation.

- 1 – work of solo instrumentation other than percussion
- 1 – instructional percussion or percussion performance-oriented ethnic videotape
- 1 – (optional) jazz or commercial work
- Remainder (7-8 works): significant percussion performances from differing genres

Example

Milhaud, Darius	(composer)
“The Creation of the World” La Creation du Monde	(work)
1923	(year of composition)
RCA Gold Seal AGL1-2445	(record title, label, ID number)
Charles Munch/The Boston Symphony	(performers)

This early recording is resigned to audio obscurity in the percussion parts (some specific sounds being quite faint), but is worth studying as an introduction to the work as well as for style, interpretation, and tempi. The composition is an early example (1923), if not the first, of serious chamber music by a well-known composer of concert music influenced by American Jazz, with much attention being assigned to percussion instruments (2 players). Featured: an early example of “drumset” with a few auxiliary instruments (tambourine and wood block) and the inclusion of piccolo timpani.

Practice: “I never practice, I always play.” Wanda Landowska

Minimum daily practice time should equal the credit amount of the lesson (i.e. two credit lesson = two hours a day of practice). Daily practice is essential for musical and technical growth and advancement.

Practice Logs

All students are encouraged to bring their practice logs to each lesson. These logs will document your practice times for the previous week and proposed times for the upcoming week. Although Dr. Zator writes down pertinent information on two pages (one for him and one for you), your personal logs can also be used to record questions you might have and could ask at your lesson. Add any other information to your own lesson notebook as soon as the lesson is over. Use this material and organizational tool to help you better prepare for your next lesson and your barrier and jury performances.

Recitals

Music Education majors are required to perform one 1/2 recital during their senior year. Additional recitals (i.e. Junior, Special, Joint or full recital) may be performed, but must be with the approval of the instructor. This will be on an individual basis. Those performing recitals will not be required to perform a jury, but will need to perform in studio class at least once. Grading will be adjusted to the following: weekly preparation (50%), mid-term assignment (10%), recital performance (30%), and program notes on recital pieces (10%). If one is performing a recital while studying a barrier instrument, the jury and studio class performances will be required on that particular instrument. Grading will be adjusted to the following: weekly preparation (45%), midterm assignment, (10%), recital (25%), jury (10%), and research report on recital and jury pieces (10%).

Students performing a recital must play a hearing of all their pieces no less than 10 days prior to their recital date. Pieces not passing the hearing will either be taken off the recital or given a few more days of preparation and heard once again. Depending on the hearing, the recital can be completely cancelled if the music is not at a performance level for the hearing.

Students performing a senior recital must submit program notes. These need to be compiled and turned into Dr. Zator for editing and approval. The student is responsible for printing out copies of the program notes for the recital. (The program is printed by the Music Department.) Timeline of the program notes:

- | | |
|--------------------------|------------------------------|
| 5-6 weeks before recital | First draft due to Dr. Zator |
| 2-3 weeks before recital | Final draft due to Dr. Zator |

Percussion Studio Class, Area Recitals, and Masterclasses Attendance

All percussion majors taking 152, 352 and 552 applied lessons are required to attend ALL studio classes, area recitals, percussion masterclasses, and percussion student recitals unless otherwise instructed by Dr. Zator. Advance notice will be given for all such events. Those missing any of these activities without giving advanced notice to Dr. Zator will have 5 points taken off their weekly preparation average for every missed event.
