Prerequisite: Satisfactory completion of Theory portion of the Graduate Diagnostic

Required Materials: Understanding Post-Tonal Music, Miguel A. Roig-Francoli
Anthology of Post-Tonal Music, Miguel A. Roig-Francoli
Manuscript paper and pencils

Course Description: The primary goal of this course is to provide students with the necessary skills for understanding post-tonal music, both in the 20th and 21st century. “Tonal” is used in this context to refer to the music of the Common-Practice Era (CPE), and it is assumed that all class participants have a sufficient grasp of tonal music. Though a variety of analytical systems will be discussed, set-theory will be used most extensively in the semester. Important musical styles that will be covered include (among others) Motivically-Constructed music, Serialism, Aleatoricism/Sound-Mass music, Minimalism, Neo-tonality, and Post-Minimalism.

Miscellaneous: Though essentially a lecture course, in-class discussion will be a crucial component of our time together, and your participation in these discussions is crucial to your success in the course. There will be occasional readings assigned during the semester, and students will be expected to demonstrate knowledge of assigned readings and familiarity with analytical on exams.

Homework Policy: Homework is to be turned in during class on the day that it is due. Late assignments will not be accepted unless by previous arrangement with the instructor.
Final Project: The final project will consist of a complete analysis of a substantial 20th or 21st century work from a style of the student’s choosing. In addition to an analytical paper, you will prepare an oral presentation of your work with a follow-up period for questions and/or defense of the ideas presented.

Assessment: Homework: 30%
Exams: 50% (25% Each)
Final Project: 20% (15% Paper, 5% Presentation)
Class Participation: 10%

Grade Scale: 90-100 – A
80-89 – B
70-79 – C
60-69 – D
0-59 – F

Attendance Policy: The University Catalog states, “Students are expected to be present for all class meetings of any course for which they are enrolled.” Sporadic attendance is a waste of your intellectual and financial resources. Regular attendance, while always important, is particularly so in a course which meets only once a week. Unless they are the result of a medical or family emergency, excused absences (as defined by the Catalog) need to be arranged beforehand with the instructor. If an absence results in a missed examination there will be no make-up scheduled.

Cell Phone/Laptop Policy: During class all cell phones should be turned off or silenced. Accepting a call, reading a text message, or responding to a text message during class is rude to both your instructor and your classmates. As a graduate class with small enrollment, laptops may be helpful for note-taking and listening. However, unless there is an obvious reason to be using one they should not be left open during class.
