Course Description

This graduate course fulfills the research requirement for those students in the Spanish MA non-thesis option (36 hours) track. In this class, students will take their comprehensive exam—a critical annotated bibliography essay—and complete their final project, an individual research work agreed upon with their advisor. Students who need to complete the Departmental Foreign Language Exam will also have the opportunity to take it while enrolled in this course.

Student Learning Outcomes

1. Demonstrate the ability to search, identify, and critically analyze appropriate secondary academic sources. Appropriate sources include: peer-reviewed journal articles, monographs, dissertation, and book chapters published by academic presses. Attention should be paid to dates of publication in order to balance current and foundational research.

2. Demonstrate critical understanding and active knowledge of main research processes and technics in the selected area (literature, cultural studies or linguistics) by developing a complete research project in the subject area.
3. Demonstrate the ability to write an academic report, in Spanish, in ways that reflect the conventions and tools associated with academic researched writing; this include deep understanding of ethical uses of sources, including the ability to integrate summaries, paraphrasing, and quotations with adequate references.
4. Demonstrate the ability to deliver an academically appropriate lecture, in Spanish, by presenting their research project to a specialized audience.

These learning outcomes will be measured through three main activities: an annotated bibliographic examination, a final research report, and an academic oral presentation of the project.

Collection of Data for Measuring Institutional Effectiveness:

In order to measure the level of compliance with the university's Institutional Effectiveness guidelines, I will collect some of the ungraded materials you will produce for the class. These materials will be part of a portfolio created on your behalf and will be measured to ensure that our program "promotes practices that result in higher student academic achievement; an enhanced student experience; aligned and transparent decisions; and readily available information for improvement, accountability, and accreditation" (see "Department of Institutional Effectiveness," <http://www.tamuc.edu/aboutus/institutionalEffectiveness/default.aspx>). This is solely an assessment of program effectiveness and in no way affects students' course grades or GPAs.

COURSE REQUIREMENTS

Minimal Technical Skills Needed

Using the learning management system e-College; advanced management of Microsoft Office Suit (including Word, Excel and PowerPoint). Advance domain of library databases.

Instructional Methods

This course will focus on a short project design, development and completion implementing specific research techniques according to the subject area (Hispanic Linguistics/ Spanish Pedagogy). Main activities will require: analytical reading, project design, project writing, editing and reviewing, planning and delivering an academic presentation. Students will also collaborate on reviewing and editing each other work.

GRADING

Assessments

1. Comprehensive exam (annotated bibliography report). The comprehensive examination consists of three open questions regarding the main subject area and specific topic the student has selected for the final project. The questions are designed to measure student's general knowledge of the study area, ability to conduct scholarship research, and ability to write in Spanish at the academic level. The general questions will deal with: 1) the theoretical framework of the project and its connections to the fields of Peninsular/Latin-American Literature, Spanish Pedagogy, Spanish Linguistics or related areas; 2) the presentation of relevant annotated bibliography; and 3) the project's relevance, main objectives, and methodology. The exam will be taken over the weekend, on the indicated dates, at any location convenient to the student. The student will receive a PDF document with the questions on Friday 8:00am, and will return the completed exam the following Monday at 8:00am via email (with copy to the Advisor and Program Director). See "Spanish MA Examination Rules" for more information.

The syllabus/schedule are subject to change.

2. Research paper: During this course, you will elaborate a research project focusing on a topic of interest agreed upon with your advisor. You need to elaborate a specific research question related to a particular subject in the general areas of Spanish literature, Hispanic Cultural Studies, or Hispanic Linguistics & Pedagogy. Then you need to critically review and integrate pertinent literature (which has been selected and annotated for the Comprehensive Exam), analyze corresponding data, and summarize and discuss your findings in a standardized style (MLA, APA or Chicago) formatted paper. You will present an initial draft for discussion with your advisor and peers, and present the final version at the end of the semester. See Schedule for details.
3. Academic Presentation: You will present the results of your research project following the conventional structure of a conference presentation; the presentation will last about 20 minutes and should not be read; the presenter can use card notes or a PPoint to support the delivery, but the reading should be kept at minimum. The presentation will consist of a brief introduction to the topic, a description of methodology, previous literature, results obtained in your research, and a critical discussion of the conclusions.

Please note that all assignments will be graded 'S' (Satisfactory) or 'U' (Unsatisfactory)

Students who are unsatisfied with the outcome of that conversation or have not been able to meet individually with their instructor, whether in-person, by email, by telephone, or by another communication medium, should then schedule an appointment with the Director of the Spanish Program, Dr. Flavia Belpoliti (flavia.belpoliti@tamuc.edu). If there are still unresolved issues, students need to schedule an appointment with the Department Head, Dr. Hunter Hayes, by completing a Student Grievance Form (available in the Main Office, HL 141). In the event that the instructor is the Department Head, the student should schedule a meeting with the Dean of the College of Arts, Sciences, and Humanities after following the steps outlined above; if the instructor is the Assistant Department Head, students should schedule a meeting with the Department Head.
