Cognitive Psychology: Connecting Mind, Research, and Everyday Experience (4th ed.)
Goldstein, E., B.
ISBN: 978-1-285-76388-0

Meeting Time:

Wednesdays: 4:30-7:10

Course Description

Cognitive psychology, the scientific study of the mind, is one of the most important and exciting areas of psychology. Given that the mind is behind all of our thoughts, emotions, judgments, and behaviors, having an understanding of the mental processes that occur in our mind can help us better understand ourselves and how the world operates around us. By the end of this course, you may be surprised at just how important cognition is in nearly everything you do. Topics in this course will include neuroscience, perception, attention, memory, memory errors, problem solving, decision-making, and others.

The syllabus/schedule are subject to change.

COURSE REQUIREMENTS

Instructional Methods

Attendance is not mandatory but is suggested each and every week if you want to succeed in this course. Because we only meet once a week, we will be covering a full chapter every week so missing a class means you will miss lecture on a full chapter. If, for whatever reason, you are to miss a week, let me know BEFORE class so we can make any arrangements that are necessary. Otherwise, get the notes from a fellow classmate and catch up on the week's material that you missed by reading the textbook. If you miss a week of class, this does not excuse you from turning in the assignment that was due that day or the assignment that may be due the following week.

Student Responsibilities or Tips for Success in the Course

Questions about Grades

Any questions about a grade for a particular assignment or exam should be brought to the professor's attention within one week of the grades for that assignment or exam being posted.

You are expected to:

1. Read the assigned material. A true understanding of cognition and the various aspects within it will not come from lecture PowerPoints alone. It is in your best interest to come to class prepared, having read the chapter that we will be discussing.
2. Attend lectures, listen closely, and ask questions. This course can be a great opportunity to have a discussion about how cognition relates to our everyday lives.
3. Pay attention to demonstrations that will be done throughout the semester because they are going to be most relevant in connecting concepts to how the world operates around us. When you can connect concepts to everyday life, it makes it easier to deeply understand the concepts.
4. Arrive on time. Being late is not only disruptive to me but it disrupts your classmates.
5. Stay off your phone except during breaks.

GRADING

Final grades in this course will be based on the following scale:

A = 90%-100%	450 – 500 points
B = 80%-89%	400 – 449 points
C = 70%-79%	350 – 399 points
D = 60%-69%	300 – 349 points
F = 59% or Below	0 – 299 points

The syllabus/schedule are subject to change.

Assessments

Article Summaries (50 points each; 150 points total)

There will be 3 article summaries due via D2L before class on the specified dates on the schedule below. These article summaries will be based on empirical research from peer-reviewed journals and will relate to a concept that we discuss in class. The articles in which you will review and summarize will be provided for you. A complete article summary is one that is NO MORE than 1-2 pages in length (double spaced, 1 inch margins, 12 point font) and sufficiently states: (1) the problem that researchers were trying to solve, (2) how the researchers attempted to solve this problem (the method they used), (3) what the researchers found (the results of the study), and (4) what do the results mean in the big picture. There will be no late assignments accepted. If you are going to miss class on the day that an article summary is due, it is still your responsibility to turn in your assignment via D2L.

QUIZZES (25 points each; 100 points total)

It is helpful for you to read the assigned chapters in the textbook. To “encourage” that behavior, there will be 5 quizzes (1 of these will be dropped). These quizzes will be given at the start of class on the specified dates on the schedule below, and should not take more than 10-15 minutes. Quizzes will consist of 5 multiple choice (worth 3 points each) and 1 short answer question (worth 10 points). If you are to miss a week of class in which there is a quiz, that will count as your one dropped quiz.

Note: Students who can demonstrate a legitimate University-excused absences, religious holiday or major illnesses are allowed to make-up one quiz during the term. Students should contact the professor prior to the missed quiz if possible, or within 24 hours of missing the quiz due to accident or illness.

EXAMS (Mid-term and final exam: 125 points each; 250 points total)

Exams will consist of 5 short answer/essay style questions, each worth 25 points. One week prior to the exam, you will receive a list of 10 short answer/essay style questions, of which 5 will appear on the exam the following week. The idea is for you to complete all 10 questions during the week leading up to the exam so you are prepared on exam day for the 5 questions from that list that will show up on the in-class exam. Material for the exams will be drawn from the text and lectures.

There will be no make-up exams except as mandated by University policy for University-excused absences, religious holidays, and major illnesses. Students should contact the professor prior to the scheduled exam if possible, or within 24 hours of missing the exam due to accident or illness.

Note: Unless specifically approved by me prior to the exam, use of electronic devices (e.g., cell phones, PDAs, iPods, and the like) during the exam is strictly prohibited and will result in your exam being taken from you immediately.

The syllabus/schedule are subject to change.

RESEARCH PARTICIPATION

A goal of this class is to help you familiarize yourself with research methods. One way to obtain this goal is to have you participate in research studies. Participating in research studies contributes to students and faculty at A&M - Commerce, your understanding of how research is conducted, and human knowledge in general. For this course, participating in research will be extra credit. You will have the opportunity to earn up to 20 points depending on the amount of research you participate in. Each credit hour of research will be worth 5 extra credit points that will be added to your total pool of points. For more information, please visit D2L and download the extra credit research participation document.

TECHNOLOGY REQUIREMENTS

Browser support

D2L is committed to performing key application testing when new browser versions are released. New and updated functionality is also tested against the latest version of supported browsers. However, due to the frequency of some browser releases, D2L cannot guarantee that each browser version will perform as expected. If you encounter any issues with any of the browser versions listed in the tables below, contact D2L Support, who will determine the best course of action for resolution. Reported issues are prioritized by supported browsers and then maintenance browsers.

Supported browsers are the latest or most recent browser versions that are tested against new versions of D2L products. Customers can report problems and receive support for issues. For an optimal experience, D2L recommends using supported browsers with D2L products.

Maintenance browsers are older browser versions that are not tested extensively against new versions of D2L products. Customers can still report problems and receive support for critical issues; however, D2L does not guarantee all issues will be addressed. A maintenance browser becomes officially unsupported after one year.

Note the following:

- Ensure that your browser has JavaScript and Cookies enabled.
- For desktop systems, you must have Adobe Flash Player 10.1 or greater.
- The Brightspace Support features are now optimized for production environments when using the Google Chrome browser, Apple Safari browser, Microsoft Edge browser, Microsoft Internet Explorer browser, and Mozilla Firefox browsers.

The syllabus/schedule are subject to change.

Copying and pasting, along with attaching/uploading documents for assignment submission, will also be required. If you do not have Microsoft Office, you can check with the bookstore to see if they have any student copies.

The syllabus/schedule are subject to change.

ACCESS AND NAVIGATION

You will need your campus-wide ID (CWID) and password to log into the course. If you do not know your CWID or have forgotten your password, contact the Center for IT Excellence (CITE) at 903.468.6000 or helpdesk@tamuc.edu.

Note: Personal computer and internet connection problems do not excuse the requirement to complete all course work in a timely and satisfactory manner. Each student needs to have a backup method to deal with these inevitable problems. These methods might include the availability of a backup PC at home or work, the temporary use of a computer at a friend's home, the local library, office service companies, Starbucks, a TAMUC campus open computer lab, etc.
