Course Description

Current problems or topics in research, employment, and trends in physics and astronomy are considered. Students are required to attend all department colloquia and seminars on Thursday. Research projects may be assigned during the semester.

Student Learning Outcomes

- Students will have a broad overview of the latest development in the forefronts of physics and astronomy
- Students will learn how active scientists analyze problems, develop strategies and set up experiments to test hypothesis and solve problems

The syllabus/schedule are subject to change.
• Students will learn presentation and communication skills
• Students will learn how to become a lifelong learner

COURSE REQUIREMENTS

Minimal Technical Skills Needed
None

Instructional Methods
By attending weekly department colloquium, students will learn the trend of modern research topics in physics and astronomy.

Student Responsibilities or Tips for Success in the Course
Students must check a course website and attend department colloquium every Thursday. A term paper or oral presentation can be assigned by the instructor.

GRADING
Final grades in this course will be based on the following scale:

COURSE AND UNIVERSITY PROCEDURES/POLICIES

Course Specific Procedures/Policies

General Classroom

Students are expected to be on time and present for all class meetings. If an emergency results in an absence, the student should contact the instructor as soon as possible.

The syllabus/schedule are subject to change.
informing the instructor of the emergency and inquiring about ways to make up the missed class. The instructor will make judgment on how to handle the situation. Possible reasons for excused absence are listed in the “Student's Guidebook” under class attendance policy. Attendance and tardy records will be maintained and both may result in deductions from your overall grade. Five unexcused absences will automatically result in a failing grade.

Syllabus Change Policy

The syllabus is a guide. Circumstances and events, such as student progress, may make it necessary for the instructor to modify the syllabus during the semester. Any changes made to the syllabus will be announced in advance.

University Specific Procedures

Student Conduct

All students enrolled at the University shall follow the tenets of common decency and acceptable behavior conducive to a positive learning environment. The Code of Student Conduct is described in detail in the Student Guidebook.

Students should also consult the Rules of Netiquette for more information regarding how to interact with students in an online forum: https://www.britannica.com/topic/netiquette
