Course Description

EDAD 647 will provide students with an opportunity to apply the concepts of ethics and philosophy to the personal and professional aspects of school administration and leadership. Students will apply these concepts by examining their own belief system, fashioning reasoned decisions, thoughtful analysis, and in problem solving.

Course Objectives

Each student will be expected to master each of the following objectives at a level worthy of study for a terminal degree:

- To create a climate that promotes reflective and reflexive processing, journaling and conversation.
- To demonstrate the capacity to provide ethical guidance to professional growth and development of self, others and collective or community entities.
- To engage in disciplined inquiry as it applies to the ethical and moral dimensions of educational leadership.
- To demonstrate a deep understanding of the school administrator's role in the development of human potential.
- To demonstrate capacity and capability to effect educational and social change within school and community settings inclusive of effecting change in public philosophy.
- To develop an understanding of the study of philosophy.
- To gain an understanding of individual belief systems.
- To explore relevant thought from a variety of philosophical perspectives in order to gain grounding in the discipline.

Student Learning Outcomes

The purpose of the doctoral program is to produce a graduate who has developed breadth of vision, a capacity for interpretation, and the ability to carry out critical investigations. The doctoral student is expected to gain many new concepts, zeal for adding to the sum of human knowledge, and the ability to conduct original research and to think clearly and independently. The student must also develop the professional competencies necessary for the application of knowledge in the essential areas of human and public interest. Guidance toward extended reading and research is an integral part of graduate study. To assist students in achieving the stated purposes of the doctoral program, the following Student Learning Outcomes have been developed for this course. Upon successful completion of this course, student will be able to:

1. Develop an understanding of the social foundations relevant to public leadership.
2. Demonstrate an understanding of axiology, epistemological and ontological dimensions of philosophy.

The syllabus/schedule are subject to change.

3. Compare and contrast major philosophical thinking represented in the works and writings of classical and contemporary as well as eastern and western philosophers.
4. Evaluate and explain ethical and moral theory and moral dilemma.
5. Align ethical reasoning and moral decision making with school leaders' actions.
6. Further his/her philosophical development of self as an educational leader by internalizing ethical theory through self-critical inquiry, reflective/reflexive and autobiographical writing, case study and peer dialogue.
7. Construct an understanding of the relationship between ethical reasoning, moral responsibility and democratic community.
8. Defend educational administration and leadership as a caring profession.
9. Develop his/her individual understanding of moral imagination, conscience, and critical consciousness as each relates to educational leadership.

COURSE REQUIREMENTS

Performance Expectations

This is a doctoral standing only course. To that end, the following student expectations for this course have been generated. Evaluation will be based on successful demonstration of the following activities. Regardless of points earned, a course grade of A cannot be obtained if all assignments are not completed. All assignments must be completed to pass this course and final course averages will not be curved.

Attendance and Active Participation. Students are expected to “attend class” online by engaging in a variety of activities, including online discussion and assignment submission. Students should be active participants; they are to be prepared, forthcoming in sharing of their own ideas and thoughts, and inviting and considerate of the thoughts and ideas shared by others. Students will both post and respond to discussion forum items.

You are required to respond in the discussion boards a minimum of two out of five weekdays (Monday through Friday) each week. There is no substitute for class participation. For each absence in participation in excess of one excused absence, a 10% reduction in the final course grade will result. Missing two participation opportunities may result in requesting that the registrar drop the student's name from the course roll. To that end, participation in the discussion forums is critical for maximizing your learning experiences in this course. You are required to be part of an online community who interacts, through discussion, to enhance and support the professional development of the group.

Part of the assessment criteria for the course includes assessing the quality and quantity of your participation in the discussion forum.

Some characteristics considered to be part of excellent discussion contributions are outlined below. The facilitator/professor will consider these characteristics when assessing the quality and level of your participation.

- You should submit your initial post(s) early in the session (but only after reading the assigned material), and your subsequent responses to the posts of other learners at timely intervals within the duration of the module. Keep in mind the goal is to have a dynamic discussion that lasts throughout the entire session. For clarity, students must post initial* discussion responses (6 points) by Wednesday at 10:00 p.m. Replies to two (2) colleagues (2 points each) must be posted by Friday at 10:00 p.m. Posts submitted outside of these expectations will not be graded and the student will receive a grade of zero points. Please write in narrative and avoid attaching posts or replies.

The syllabus/schedule are subject to change.

- Your posts and responses should be thorough and thoughtful. Just posting an "I agree" or "good ideas" will not be considered adequate. Support your statements with examples from the text (-4 points), lecture notes or videos, and other reference material. For example:

Rebore (2014) speaks of “grounding research in emergent theory” (p.16).

Therefore, John, please go back to chapter one and integrate the components...

“Your response to the prompt is too subjective. Starratt (2004) discussed the disturbing nature of the contextual educational system... While the second part of your response is close, here’s a suggested revision...”

- Be sure cite all material using APA 6th edition (-2 points). You are, however, encouraged to be succinct — keep each post and response to what is necessary to meet course expectations or to meet the parameters of the question. Keep in mind that your fellow learners will be reading and responding to you, as well.
- Make certain to address the discussion prompt(s). This does not mean you should not extend the topic, but do not stray from the topic. More importantly, your response to the prompt(s) must extend the full breadth of all assigned readings and lectures (-6 points). Demonstrate the ability to synthesize theory and apply to professional practice by citing from all of the assigned readings for the specific module.
- Avoid opinion. Demonstrate that you have read the assigned material by how you construct the response. Whenever possible, connect theory to practice (-6 points).
- Discussions occur when there is dialogue. So, build upon the posts and responses of other learners to create discussion threads. Make sure you revisit the discussion forum and respond (if necessary) to what other learners have posted to your initial responses. As needed, the professor will seek clarifying remarks or request more information. You are required to respond to these probes for deeper investigation (-6 points or + discretionary points); however, they do not count as a reply to a classmate. Exemplary students typically visit the discussion area 3-5 “different” times each module.
- When relevant, add to the discussion by including prior knowledge, work experiences, references, Websites, resources, etc. (giving credit when appropriate).
- Your contributions to the discussions (posts and responses) should be complete and free of grammatical or structural errors (-4 points).

Readings & Collaborative Learning: Students will be responsible for reading assigned materials, both from the course texts and other readings as assigned, prior to participating in the discussions and/or developing written assignments. Students may be asked to work in groups to process the information gleaned from the readings; this may occur through a variety of technologies.

Assignments: Throughout each module, you will be required to complete and submit brief two page Case Analysis assignments related to the weekly module's topic of discussion. More information regarding the weekly assignment is found in the Assignment area of the particular Module.

Book Report (Midterm/Module 5): Students will be required to write a book report detailing major contributions and thoughts of their selected philosopher. Philosophers are selected on a first come basis in module one. Prior to selecting a philosopher, it is advisable to investigate the availability of potential book options. The book report (5-7 double spaced pages, 12 pt.) will include properly referenced citations throughout the report, as well as a reference page (APA 6th edition formatting). Your report will be submitted to turnitin for similarity checking. Similarity scores over 20% will receive zero points. It is suggested that you submit a few days early in order to verify your similarity score. Submitting at the last minute does not excuse assignment or submission expectations. Keep in mind that you may resubmit this assignment as often as needed up to the submission deadline.

Research Paper (Final Exam/Unit 15/Module 8): Each student will develop a paper (8-10 pages, double spaced, 12 pt.) that addresses the general and unique ethical issues in the area of education. This is a formal paper that should include APA formatting and appropriately cited in-text references inclusive of major themes from all three textbooks used in the course. Your report will be submitted to turnitin for similarity checking. Similarity scores over 20% will receive zero points. It is suggested that you submit a few days early in order to verify your similarity score. Submitting at the last minute does not excuse assignment or submission expectations. Keep in mind that you may resubmit this assignment as often as needed up to the submission deadline; however, submitting for similarity checking will expire the day before the assignment is due at 12 noon.

Reading Quizzes/Reflections: Each module may conclude with a quiz to assess student mastery of learning outcomes. Quizzes are timed and are designed to afford the opportunity for the learner to connect theory to practice. Moreover, quizzes are designed for higher-order cognition. Each question and subset may contain multiple correct answers directly from the text; however, in order to receive credit for the question, the student must select the "best response" based on a number of factors or influences.

Policy on Late Work

Late work is not accepted in this course for any reason. As doctoral students, much is expected regarding punctuality and professionalism of assignments.

Instructional Methods

Quality of Online Course Communication

The syllabus/schedule are subject to change.

We will be sharing experiences and application of theoretical concepts. You are encouraged to share your personal and professional experiences. In order to assure that we can have a free and open discussion in which you may elect to discuss your experiences and your district's policies and procedures as they apply to the course material, I expect each person to respect the confidentiality of classmates. At the same time I ask that each of you exercise good judgment in what you choose to share, avoiding non-public or competitively sensitive information. In other words, anything said in the classroom stays in the classroom.

Our discussion goal is to be collaborative, not combative. Experience suggests that even an innocent remark in the online environment can easily be misconstrued. I suggest you always reread and edit your responses carefully before posting in order to make certain that the wording in your message will not be seen as a personal attack. Personal attacks and harsh tones will not be tolerated and will negatively affect your grade. I expect you to be positive in your approach to others and diplomatic with your words. As your professor, I am also committed to do the same in all of our communications.

Writing Style

All papers must be written according to the 6th Edition of the APA Writing Style Manual. Papers must include references formatted using the APA style manual. All citations and references must be made using the APA style manual (6th edition). Please use the following format for all your documents: New Times Roman, double-spaced, one-inch margins, and 12-point type.

Student Responsibilities or Tips for Success in the Course

For a 3 semester hour course, plan to spend 7-9 hours a week completing your readings, lectures, and participating in discussion boards. You will notice that not any of this time includes preparing your assignments, submitting them or increasing your own computer and technology skills. That is additional time each week. It is recommended that you develop a personal study schedule for completing each week's course requirements.

GRADING

Grading Criteria

While the final course grade is the sole judgment of the professor, the following scale will be used as a guide. All assignments must be completed to pass this course.

Browser support

D2L is committed to performing key application testing when new browser versions are released. New and updated functionality is also tested against the latest version of supported browsers. However, due to the frequency of some browser releases, D2L cannot guarantee that each browser version will perform as expected. If you encounter any issues with any of the browser versions listed in the tables below, contact D2L Support, who will determine the best course of action for resolution. Reported issues are prioritized by supported browsers and then maintenance browsers.

Supported browsers are the latest or most recent browser versions that are tested against new versions of D2L products. Customers can report problems and receive support for issues. For an optimal experience, D2L recommends using supported browsers with D2L products.

Maintenance browsers are older browser versions that are not tested extensively against new versions of D2L products. Customers can still report problems and receive support for critical issues; however, D2L does not guarantee all issues will be addressed. A maintenance browser becomes officially unsupported after one year.
